Recycling and the human figure leaves reflections of us all on our planet

With quick scissors and a stack of magazines, fine artist Cynthia Jacobs cuts collages of live models posing. One pose might be enough, or many poses may flow together, all in the name of recycling paper into fine art.

These collages average 11" x 14" and there are many to review on Cynthia's website.

"Recycling is a fun concept to create artwork around. I like making collages from old magazines because I can work quickly with a model's pose; cut quick for a feeling of movement through the art process. They always come out different without planning."
